

Healthy vegetables from the Outapi irrigation site

My name is Hermann Neumbo. I am the environmental health officer from Outapi. I buy products from the Oswin O. Namakalu facility because they are healthy and tasty.

Namibia is a dry country. Water is a scarce resource. Vegetables are important for a healthy diet. Growing vegetables needs water.

From the sanitary facilities sewage comes to the treatment and reuse plant. Here, the water is purified and disinfected. This guarantees the reduction from millions to practically zero germs.

For your own safety:

- Please do not walk around the farm!
- Please do not collect vegetables by yourself!
- Please wait until you are served by the farmers!
- Please don't let your children play around!
- As usual: Please wash the vegetables before consumption!
